

RUSSIA WARNED OF U. S. DELEGATION'S WANING PATIENCE

Marshall Authorizes Return To Berlin of Lt. Gen'l L. D. Clay

"MILD SENSATION"

Despair of Progress at The Moscow Big Four Conference

By Kingsbury Smith
European General Manager, I.N.S.

MOSCOW, Apr. 3.—(INS)—Russia has given a clear warning today that the American delegation is losing patience over the lack of progress at the Moscow Big Four conference.

The notice came in the form of a letter from the Russian Foreign Ministry to the American delegation, stating that the Russian government is disappointed in the progress of the conference and that it is necessary to take steps to bring about a settlement.

The move created a mild sensation in conference circles and indications that American delegates have given up hope that the Big Four will reach any general agreement on Germany.

At the time of writing of this dispatch Gen. Clay had not actually left. The general was standing by the Moscow airport waiting for the fog to lift sufficiently to enable his plane to take off for Berlin.

The mere fact that Marshall's chief military adviser on German affairs was on the point of departure after having said his work in Moscow appeared finished was in itself considered highly significant.

Gen. Clay left his room at the Moscow Hotel this morning for the airport an hour before the special committee on which he had been acting as the American representative was to start considering proposals on the political future of Germany.

These proposals, including an important one put forward by Marshall, were referred to this committee by the Big Four Council of Ministers yesterday.

Nevertheless, Marshall decided not to waste Gen. Clay's time in that committee any longer.

Gen. Clay is the first leading member of any of the visiting delegations to leave Moscow.

The fact that the Secretary of State Marshall is releasing the general to allow him to return to Berlin was seen as an indication that there is

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Dewey Still Leads

Washington, April 3. END of the session of the New York Legislature last week has convinced most experienced political observers that so far as the Republican presidential nomination is concerned the situation has changed very little in the approximately six months since the 1946 elections.

Had Governor Dewey failed of election then or pulled through by a slender margin, he would have been eliminated. But his overwhelming re-election made him the leading candidate in a field of five.

HE still is. Not many will dispute that. The polls all sustain it so far as popular party sentiment is concerned. And so do the estimates as to convention delegates. Of course, a good many things can happen in another year. But, as of now, Dewey not only has held his lead but improved his position. He is engaged in no overt activity to promote his presidential candidacy, and this improvement is clearly due to two reasons.

ONE is that having no national office he is removed from the embarrassing handling of so many controversial questions, such, for example, as Senator Taft is exposed to. At the same time, as Governor of New York he holds a public office of such conspicuous importance that he does not have to strive after publicity in order to keep himself in the popular mind. In this he has a great advantage over ex-Governor

After maintaining for nearly a week that he knew nothing about it, and refusing to talk, Lloyd Holly, N. J., who was employed as a dishwasher at a Doylestown inn, on Monday admitted to Pennsylvania State Police that he had stolen a watch from a chef at the Cross Keys diner.

Trooper John P. Mitchell, of the Doylestown sub-station, who investigated the theft, which took place March 13, when a chef, Oliver Snyder, missed a wrist watch and stretch band, valued at $75 obtained a confession from Cramer in the County Prison on Monday.

Cramer, who always wore Army clothes although he did not serve in the armed forces, was employed at the diner for four days. Mr. Snyder, from whom the watch was stolen, did not report the theft to the State Police until March 25 when he suspected Cramer.

Cramer, who was employed as a dishwasher and handyman at the inn, accompanied State Policemen to a pawnshop, in Philadelphia, where the watch was recovered.

After taking Cramer into custody, State Policemen searched his room in the employee's quarters in a local inn, but found nothing.

A SUMMARY OF THE NEWS

The United Nations Security Council voted unanimously last night to grant to the United States a sole strategic trusteeship over the former Japanese-mandated islands in the Pacific. Approval came after all attempts to alter the original American plan had been defeated.

Britain, having received the approval of the Big Five, formally asked that the General Assembly be called into extraordinary session to prepare for consideration at the regular fall meeting of recommendations "concerning the future government of Palestine." It was learned in London that the British have no intention of relinquishing their United Nations mandate.

Senator Taft attacked this country's plan for international control of atomic energy and said it should be withdrawn from the United Nations. He offered no substitute program.

In another Senate move involving the United Nations, a committee was almost solidly in favor of the principle of Senator Vandenberg's proposal to authorize that organization to halt at will American aid to Greece and Turkey. President Truman is being urged by advisers to consider Robert Moses as director of any loan to those countries.

A Soviet attempt in the Foreign Ministers' Council to give Communist-dominated "front" groups a voice in a provisional German Government and in drafting a constitution was blocked by the United States and Britain. The Big Four agreed on the urgency of forming a central government, but got nowhere on economic unity. Yugoslavia's delegation reached Moscow to demand a part of Carinthia and reparations from Austria.

By June 1, there will be only 6,180 American military and naval personnel in China and they will be there at China's request, Secretary Marshall informed Foreign Secretary Molotov. In Nanking, the Government announced the capture of Taiwan, last important Communist base in southern Shantung.

United States and British occupation forces were running into difficulties with the Germans. Ruhr coal miners voted almost unanimously for a one-day strike in protest against the food situation. Allied authorities blamed German officials, particularly Bavarians, for the shortage, and opened a sweeping investigation. The Bavarian Agriculture Minister was reported to have delivered an attack on American policy in a speech also anti-Semitic.

Two Teen-Age Youths Get License to Wed

A Definite Increase in The Number of Girls Under 20 Years of Age

101 LICENSES ISSUED

DOYLESTOWN, Apr. 3.—Only two teen-age youths were among the 101 couples applying for marriage licenses in the Orphans' Court during the month of March, while there were 21 girls under 20 years of age applying. There was a definite increase in the number of teen-age brides in comparison with February's records.

Of the 21 prospective brides in their teens, three were only 16 years old. There were three who were 17 years old; nine, who were 18; and six, who were 19.

The youngest couple applying were residents of White Horse, N. J. The bridegroom-to-be was 18 and his girl-friend was 17. Several men in their twenties chose teen-age brides.

There was little disparity in ages during March. The greatest disparity was that of a 53-year-old man and his 36-year-old bride. Both were residents of Quakertown. A New York couple, 45 and 30, also applied.

The oldest couple, a 62-year-old Richboro man and a 53-year-old Hathboro woman, were granted a license. Only five applicants were over 50 years of age. Two were women; and three were men.

A slight decrease in the number of divorcees applying was noticeable. There were 15 male divorcees and 14 female divorcees. The average age of both men and women was 35.

Applicants came from many nearby States. Over half were non-residents of Bucks county.

LETTERS RECEIVED

Three more residents of Bristol have given verbal backing to the Bristol Blood Donors in their hoped-for plan to continue life-guard duty at Silver Lake and re-conditioning of the beach.

The Blood Donors, anxious to continue the work they carried out last summer, during which period no lives were lost at Silver Lake, made a public appeal for expressions of opinion as to whether this activity should continue. Letters were slow in arriving, but today three more are acknowledged, these being from Bristol residents who are anxious to have Silver Lake well guarded and the beach improved.

The letters follow:
"March 31, 1947.
"To the Blood Donors,
"Bristol, Pa.
"Dear Friends:
"Am thoroughly convinced I assumed the wrong attitude in deciding not to answer your request for letters and personal opinions on your life guards at Silver Lake. What does the public think of the idea? Thinking you would receive more letters than the paper could print, I was disillusioned.
"Having talked to persons from all walks of life, gathered from their conversations, they are definitely in favor of your wonderful work. It's really a noble act for you boys to take such an interest in our children's safety. The parents felt last year they could rest assured of their children's safety when they went to the lake, something they had never been able to do in the past during swimming seasons in Bristol.
"You boys most certainly deserve a great deal of credit. I do earnestly hope you have not become discouraged due to lack of letters received. I'm convinced the parents really want their children protected, but for writing and telling you, they surely do believe in letting 'George do it'.
"Should you make a house to house canvass, you would change your minds as to how much the

HOOVER ON GERMANY

The report submitted to President Truman by former President Hoover, covering the situation and future of Germany, has a great deal more importance than has been recognized.

It is one of the most able and illuminating studies, fully backed by figures, of the problem which is at the heart of nearly all the questions troubling Europe, and many of those vexing other parts of the world.

It is not either light or easy reading; but it repays the most careful analysis.

World policy with regard to post-war Germany, the former President makes clear, is at a crossroads. The present situation is intolerable. It cannot go on. A deliberate decision must be made.

Shall Germany be allowed to fall, to remain divided and prostrate; or shall she be restored, in the social and economic fields though not militarily, to approximately her pre-war status? That is the underlying question which President Hoover asks. He gives his own answer, and his reasons for it.

Specifically, he called for four steps:
"We should free German industry, subject to the control commission.
"The removal and destruction of plants (except direct arms plants) should stop.
"Germany in peace must be free from ownership of industry by foreign government.
"There can be no separation or different regime of the Ruhr or Rhineland from the New Germany."

To those who will feel that any such rebuilding of Germany, necessarily at the large expense of the American people, will be to reward her for starting the war, President Hoover points out that the consequences of any other program will be still more disheartening, and the cost infinitely greater.

Better to rebuild Germany than to have to rebuild all Europe and much of the rest of the world—that is his underlying theme.

Much of the report is devoted to exposing the theories back of the "Carthaginian" peace terms finally worked out for Germany—the parceling out of separate areas to different powers, the attempts to turn an industrial economy into an agrarian one, and the insistence that (for fear of reconstruction of war machinery) Germany be allowed only light industries.

FORESEE ENROLLMENT DROP, THIRD GRADES

Statistics Indicate Lowering In Pupil Number Next September

FIGURES PRESENTED

Statistics indicate a drop in enrollment in the third grade at Wood street and the third grade at Washington street of the Bristol public schools, in September, according to Warren P. Snyder, superintendent of the schools.

Mr. Snyder informed the school board of this fact at a meeting held Tuesday evening.

He said:
"The enrollment in the third grade at Wood street and the third grade at Washington street is so small as to justify the combination of these two grades as one fourth grade, in September."

"The children now attending the third grade in the Wood street school will attend fourth grade in the Washington street school. Mrs. Vandegriff will be transferred to the Washington street school as fourth grade teacher."

"The following plan shows how this will work for the next three years, after which a normal condition will exist, and an extra teacher will be added at the Wood street school in 1950-51."

"In 1947-48 there will be no change in the Wood street school but in 1948-49 Miss Rogers will have fourth grade."

"In 1950-51 a normal condition should return."

The point which the former President stresses is that Germany, from the point of view of Europe and much of the rest of the world, is not a separate entity, but has been a sort of gear closely meshed with the other economies.

Destruction of that one gear has thrown the whole machine into confusion and inaction. The simplest, and probably the only, way to start the wheels turning again is to reconstruct the gear.

Take the question of Greece. England already has spent millions, and we face the possibility of spending billions, trying to "rebuild the economy" of that unhappy land. This has been the real problem there; in a sense, the Communist angle was dragged in more for political reasons than for any others.

Now, what is the origin of the economic problem of Greece? Many think that it was merely the savage destruction of physical property in Greece, after the Nazis had beaten down the fierce military resistance put up by that small nation. That is a complication, but not the heart of the problem. Mills can be rebuilt, machinery replaced. But they alone would do Greece little good.

Greece's trouble springs from the fact that she has lost her key market. One-third of Greece's exports went to Germany before the war. Where can she send them today?

One way or another, this is the problem of most of the other nations of Europe. Take a look at the map; the figure of speech of Germany being a gear meshed with many others is perfect. Pre-war Germany was surrounded by them—France, Belgium and Holland to the West, Denmark and the Scandinavian countries to the North, the Baltic countries, Poland, Czechoslovakia to the East, and Italy and the Baltics, including Greece, to the South.

As an economic setup, this structure tended to function as a unit. What was Germany's place in it? Fundamentally, she made the heavy machinery, the others bought it and traded with her in light industries and food.

The economic basis of the Potsdam plan is an effort to reverse this entire operation. Germany is to be confined to the production of light industrial commodities and food, robbing her neighbors of their markets, and to be deprived of heavy industries upon which these neighbors had relied in the past.

No wonder the plan hasn't worked! It has been like trying to make a watch run backwards!

The argument of President Hoover is for a return to the natural and long-standing economic structure in Europe—not because he is sorry for Germany, but because he is sorry for her neighbors and knows of no other way of relieving their growing distress.

The efforts to make a "pastoral state" of Germany, he finds, have produced the most frightful suffering and future distress to that ill-fated land; but worse, they are piling new and terrific complications upon all the rest of Europe.

That any plan of putting Germany back on her feet, even though it is the only hope of salvaging the peoples of all the other European nations, will run into strong resistance he is fully aware.

He finds fault with many governments, including our own—for such absurdities as saying that Germany must raise her own food and then forcing her to shut down the nitrogen plants which could turn out the fertilizers necessary to raise it.

But running through his report is constant irritation of the two nations he appears to feel are most motivated by a greedy desire to let Germany stagnate in order to seize her assets.

One of these is Russia, the other France. Of them he says: "The Russians and the French have failed to carry out the provisions of the Potsdam agreement for economic unity in the four zones (of Germany)." And further: "The next effect is that the United States and Britain through relief are paying Russian and French reparations."

The Great Game of Politics

Stassen, who, though the one avowed presidential aspirant, holds neither state nor national office. Hence, he is rather hard pushed to keep in the public eye. At the moment he is in Europe, where his presence seems to have attracted very little attention.

Another reason for the Dewey improvement is that the manner in which he has been doing his job, both as an administrator and as his party's leader throughout a long and tough session of the State Legislature, has combined to strengthen the public impression of competency which he made early in his career and which undoubtedly is one of his chief political assets. In addition, Governor Dewey has led the way in the nation for the kind of restrictive labor legislation which the people generally want. The bill which he sponsored and has now signed makes it illegal for any public employee of either city or State to strike. It makes impossible the sort of transportation strike with which the Communist Councilman, Mike Quill, has several times brought the great city of New York to the brink of disaster.

A SIMPLE bill with severe penalties, it protects the public of New York city and State from strikes of policemen, firemen, garbage collectors, street cleaners, transit workers, schoolteachers or any other kind of public servant. It was passed not only against the almost solid opposition of the Democrats in the General Assembly but with every CIO, Communist and left-wing agitator in the State denouncing it and the Governor with all the fury of which they are capable. Unperturbed by the vituperation and abuse of these elements, all of which were opposed to his re-election in 1946, Mr. Dewey calmly enacted his proposal into law.

NO ONE will contend that this has not strengthened him in the country as a whole as well as inside the Republican party. Unquestionably the great bulk of the American people favor the sort of labor law with which he has identified himself. The credit of being the pioneer along this line after some 14 years of humiliating subservience to the CIO bosses means a good deal in the way of prestige. It establishes him temporarily at least—as a leader in the field where the Republican party has got to function boldly or disappear a large part of those who voted Republican in 1946. Meanwhile, Republicans in Congress have been wrestling with this labor problem for nearly three months and are not expected to act finally until May—at least.

THE job that confronted Mr. Dewey, of course, was far easier and simpler than the one that confronts Senator Taft. The former as governor had complete control of his party in the General Assembly. He not only had the responsibility but he had the power. All he had to do was decide what he wanted done. It is different with Senator Taft. He has the responsibility but not the power. For one thing, he will not be possible for him to get exactly the kind of bill he wants out of the Senate Committee of which he is chairman. There are too many Republicans, as well as Democratic CIO labor scoundrels on it. For another, he will have to make compromises in order to get the bill through the Senate, where the Republicans have a very slim and not wholly disciplined majority. For a third, he has to consider whether the bill will be vetoed by President Truman, and, if so, whether it would be possible to override the veto.

GOVERNOR DEWEY had none of these complications to contend with. As has been said, his position was relatively simple. The boldness and speed with which he acted, give him an advantage. However, this may disappear when the Republican Congress finally acts. It cannot, it is said, well do less for the nation in the way of correcting labor abuses than Governor Dewey has done for his State. However, his bill should be far more comprehensive and complete. The Dewey law is fine so far as it goes, but covers only one phase of a great problem.

little prospect now of working out a detailed understanding on current or future German problems.

The sole comment of Gen. Clay was: "My work here is finished."

The general added that he would return to Moscow only if Marshall summons him.

He explained that there are many problems awaiting him in Berlin. In view of the present unpromising state of discussions in Moscow he considers the problems awaiting his attention in Germany are more urgent than the diplomatic negotiations in Moscow.

Announcement of the departure of Gen. Clay came shortly after British Foreign Secretary Bevin declared frankly that the whole Big Four conference may wind up in failure.

Bevin revealed keen disappointment over the fact the Ministers have reached no agreement at this stage of the conference and warned that it would be very unfortunate if the conferees finally "arrive at nothing."

The Briton made his statement after the Big Four conferred yesterday for more than four hours without reaching any agreement on a major issue.

The chief question before the Ministers was that of a future government for Germany. The matter was referred to a co-ordinating committee.

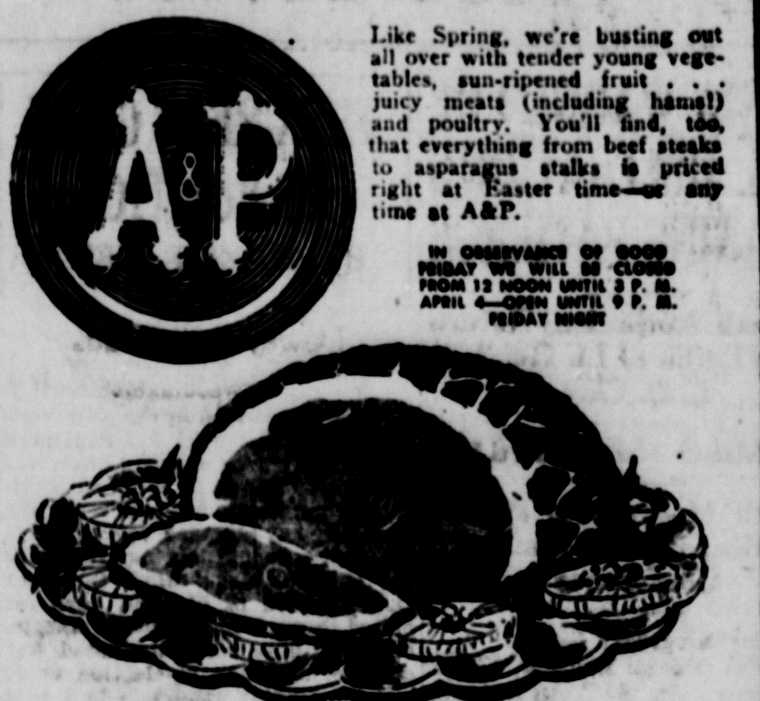

The sole cheering factor of the deliberations was a move by France to accept American and British views that the future government should be deprived of strong powers. This stand contrasts with the Soviet demand that a new central regime for a reconstructed Germany have stronger powers.

The problem of Austria continued deadlocked when deputies could not resolve the question of what constitutes German assets.

The Big Four when they reconvene today will consider a report by a co-ordination committee on democratization and denazification of Germany.

If you want to keep it a secret don't put it in the Want Ads.

Faith Clarke's SHOPPING TIPS FOR BUDGETEERS

HALF-DEER COATS. The Snellenburg Girls Dept. is noted for girls' coats of 100% virgin wool at reasonable prices. To name just one from a charming collection—a $19.95 full-length lovely in pastel shades, in sizes 7 to 14. It has the newest full-length push-up sleeves, a French notched yoke, back box-pleat, all-around belt, shirred back. What is young life without a stunning Easter coat? Make a quick shopping trip, Mother! (2nd fl.)

PERKIE - UPPEERS! That's an apt description of the frosty suit-dickies displayed, for Easter, at the Snellenburg Neckwear Counter. At from $2.85 to $3.85 there's the prettiest group imaginable. Nice for your new suits, literally transforming for your old ones. There are sheers and opaques in white, yellow, blue, pink, orchid, chamois. There are tulle, and what might be described as "confections"—so lacy and frilly are they. I loved the new jabot numbers! There are necklines high and low, including Peter Pan, reverses, etc. (1st fl.)

POSIES, so carefully made as to rival Nature's own handiwork, are now displayed at the Snellenburg Artificial Flower Counter. Not since the war have we had such variety and quality. There are domestic and imported boutonnieres, bunchettes for hats or hair, and lovely little hatlets of flowers massed on velvet headbands. Prices range from 50c for the smallest nosegays to $4.95 for the hatlets. Be sure to wear a flower-touch for the Easter season. (1st fl.)

EASTER FINGERS— that's what well-gloved little girls should have on Easter morning. Believe it or not, the Snellenburg Glove Dept. has rayon, flannel, and other gloves small enough for one-year-olds! The sizes, however, range upward to twelve years. White, pink or blue. $1. Then there are hand-sewn, double-woven white cottons, both in slip-on and one-button styles, sizes one to twelve, at $2.25. All these make delightful gifts. You mothers and aunts will want to investigate some lovely soft capskins for yourselves, in white, black, brown, sizes 6 to 8 (with quarter sizes) at $2.98 and $3.98. Unusually nice. (1st fl.)

SCATTER PINS— the kind you wear two or better, three on a lapel or dress shoulder. The very latest are colorful bugs! The Snellenburg Costume Jewelry Dept. has a delightful variety of these fascinating, fashionable insects. While they are an adult fashion, the sub-debbies and the debs are quite mad about them. Many are being purchased for Easter gifts. Buy separately at 95c to $1.85 each. Other new jewelry includes smart chateleine pins, at $1.99, in this department. Costume jewelry is, of course, subject to the 20% Federal tax. (1st fl.)

P.S. Do send clippings with mail orders when you can! Phone free (5c, 10c, and 15c out-of-town calls only). Penna.—ENT 10160; Jersey—WX-1150. Shop located Market, 11th to 12th Sts. Phila.—through to 1125 29 Chestnut St. Be hearin' from you! Faithfully, FAITH.

Children in Sellersville are looking forward to an Easter egg hunt, which is scheduled to take place on Sellersville playground, on Saturday afternoon at two o'clock. In the event of rain, it has been announced, the event will take place on Monday afternoon.

Each child will be presented a chocolate egg, and there will be novelties for the children.

Children will be divided into groups in the hunt for the many colored eggs, which will be hidden throughout the grounds.

SUNDAY DINNER
Suggestions

EGGS are a vitamin and mineral filled food which have won a daily place on most American menus. Whether they are served for morning breakfast, at noon luncheon, in a dinner dessert or mixed with a salad, they will add taste and nutrition to the family's daily diet.

During 1946, the American people consumed an estimated 375 eggs per capita. Continuation of an egg a day plan, long recommended by dietary authorities, will aid in maintaining balanced and efficient meals for the family, according to the A & P Series Home-Makers.

Eggs may be fried, scrambled, poached, shirred or boiled in the shell, and may be served either hot or cold. When served cold they generally appear on the table in salads, stuffed or pickled, in custards and sandwiches, or as a tasty addition to a variety of drinks. Eggs can also comprise the main ingredient in a plain omelet, or a combination omelet with fish, jelly, or left-over vegetables, mushrooms, assorted spices and herbs, cheese, chicken, ham or other meat.

When building main dishes and meals around eggs, housewives find them excellent binders for other recipe ingredients, clarifiers for fine clear soup and coffee, emulsifiers for salad dressings, coatings for croquettes, retarders of sugariness in candies, leaveners for light breads and cakes, and garnishers with flavor and color.

To maintain the best taste qualities of eggs be sure that they are stored properly in the home. They should be packed with the pointed end down and kept in the refrigerator away from items which give off strong odors.

For Sunday dinner serve a fruit cup for a first course with a main course of pot roast, baked potatoes, spinach topped with hard boiled eggs, a custard pie for dessert and coffee.

Orange Juice is an Easy Eye-Opener

DIG daily glassfuls of Florida orange juice are just what the doctors order for these brisk mornings, to help ward off colds. And now that Florida is sending her prize crop of Valencia oranges north, it's mighty pleasant medicine. Oranges can be squeezed the right before, and the juice won't lose any appreciable amount of Vitamin C. Orange juice lends delightful flavor to lots of foods, so use it freely during this season when it's most plentiful and delicious. Here are three recipes which will introduce new taste treats to your table:

Florida Orange Pudding

2 egg yolks
 1/4 cup gold milk
 4 tablespoons
 1 tablespoon
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1/2 cup scalded milk
 4 tablespoons corn syrup
 1 tablespoon grated Florida orange rind
 1 cup Florida orange juice
 3 Florida oranges, sliced
 2 egg whites

Beat egg yolks slightly with the cold milk. Mix sugar, cornstarch and salt and blend into the egg mixture. Beat in scalded milk and cook in top part of double boiler over hot water till mixture coats the spoon. Cool, beat in Florida orange rind and juice and pour into custard cups or serving dishes over slices of Florida orange. Beat egg whites stiff, add corn syrup gradually, and beat till mixture stands in stiff peaks. Pile on custard mixture in dishes and brown in moderate oven (325°F.) about 12 minutes. Serve hot or cold. Makes 6 servings.

Florida Orange Punch

4 Florida oranges
 1/4 cup Florida orange juice
 1/2 cup boiling water
 5 tablespoons sugar
 Peel the Florida oranges with sharp knife, removing all white membrane with peel. Cut on each side of dividing membrane and remove section by section. Cut each section into small pieces. Combine orange with remaining ingredients. Heat but do not boil. Serve in cups with the meal or with cookies for an afternoon "pick-up" or as a "night cap". Makes 6 servings.

vent such a flaw in the appearance is to pull the hair up firmly before and during the application of make-up.

With the true hairline thus established, make-up foundation and the following application of other make-up materials can be precisely carried to an exact juncture with the hair border.

Even if the make-up has been created without this hair-tightening precaution, and some slight border of unmade-up skin does appear between the hair and the facial complexion, this error may still be repaired without a great deal of trouble.

Pan-Cake Makeup makes such repair particularly easy. Just extend the already generally made-up facial surface up to the required meeting with the hairline, and don't worry about this second minor application overlapping the original larger application. Overlaps of this type of make-up blend together perfectly.

Worry of FALSE TEETH

Slipping or Irritating?

Don't be embarrassed by loose false teeth slipping, dropping or wobbling when you eat, talk or laugh. Just sprinkle a little FAS-TEETH on your plates. This pleasant powder gives a remarkable sense of added comfort and security by holding plates more firmly. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. It's alkaline (non-acid). Get FAS-TEETH at any drug store.—(Advertisement)

Today's Quiet Moment

By the Rev. Samuel Gashell, Pastor
Tullytown Methodist Church

"It is finished." Thus the Son of God announced that His redemptive work was done. We thank Thee, Father, that one came, doing for us what we could not do for ourselves. Satisfying the Law's demands. Reconciling Thee to the world, in this week of deep solemnity, as the world sojers just a little, and millions of Thy children again think of the betrayal, the agony of the garden, the bruising of the cross, and the death of the Son of Thy Love; and then in deep thankfulness rejoice in the eternal salvation there won, bring us to a more intimate relationship with Thee because of it. Amen.

PATENT GRANTED TO
2 MORRISVILLE MEN*Manuel and Mario Tama
Granted Patent on An Induction Furnace*IS ASSIGNED TO FIRM

MORRISVILLE, April 3 — A patent which has been assigned to Trenton, N. J., firm, has been granted to Manuel and Mario Tama, both of this borough.

The patent, granted the number 2,415,974, by the U. S. Patent Office, is on a "Submerged Resistor Type Induction Furnace and Method of Operating."

Details of the patent are "extremely technical" it is said.

According to those familiar with such devices "an induction furnace is an electric furnace in which, by means of a transformer, a large electric current passes through the metal and generates sufficient heat to melt such metal. The submerged resistor type of induction furnace contains the usual melting hearth and one or more secondary connecting hearts filled with molten metal during the entire melting period, these smaller hearts also being energized by a transformer.

"Heretofore, in the melting of light metals, such as aluminum alloys, in submerged resistor type of induction furnace, deposits of slag would clog the furnace, and render the operation impracticable."

Messrs. Tama claim that, by means of their invention, the slag may be controlled and confined only to those sections of the furnace that are easily accessible to cleaning tools during the operation of the furnace, and that a practically continuous operation of the furnace may thus be accomplished, for the first time in the history of metallurgy, in connection with the melting of light metals in this type furnace. Also, the life of the heat-resisting lining of the furnace is extended, because the attacking action of the slag deposits may be confined to a comparatively small area of the secondary melting circuit, which is well within reach of easy repair.

MOST ALL BASEBALLS COVERED AT PERKASIE

Balls Wound At Plant in Connecticut and Then Shipped To Bucks Co.

USE ENTIRE PLANT

PERKASIE, Apr. 3.—Every base ball used in organized baseball, together with balls used in most independent leagues, schools, colleges and on the sandlots in every section of the world where baseball is played, are covered right here.

The E. Hubbert & Son, Inc., baseball plant here operates under a contract with the Spalding firm, which not only sets the standards for baseballs but actually produces virtually all of the balls used in the great national pastime.

The Perkasio plant is devoted entirely to cutting and stitching covers. The ball is wound in a Connecticut plant and shipped to Perkasio for covering. From Perkasio the balls are sent to the Spalding distributing station where they are branded and trademarked before being distributed to the trade.

The plan of devoting an entire plant to the covering of baseballs was not conceived as a practical and economical plan. Like "Topsy" it just grew.

Ed Hubbert, president of the Perkasio firm, is a native of Philadelphia and as a youngster got himself a job at the A. J. Reach sporting goods plant. Like many city dwellers, Hubbert developed an urge to reside in the country and yielded to that urge when he became a resident of the Third Ward of Perkasio more than thirty years ago. For a time he commuted to Philadelphia to continue his work at the Reach plant.

Finally, he decided that it would be more convenient to bring his work to Perkasio, than to commute to Philadelphia daily. It was agreeable to his employer and, as developments proved, a new industry was born in Perkasio.

Hubbert brought baseballs to his home and set up a little corner of the kitchen for the operation. Members of his family learned to stitch covers and more balls were handled here. Finally, neighbors helped during their spare time with the result that the business outgrew its kitchen quarters and a small shop was erected at his home. More work and more help was a logical conclusion and eventually arrangements were made for incorporation and the factory building on Chestnut street, near Ninth, was purchased and the firm entered into a contract to stitch all Spalding balls in Perkasio. A power press to die out the covers was added to the equipment.

The operation is 100 per cent handwork. The only equipment in the stitching department is a clamp for each stitcher. The ball, with the loose cover, is placed between the jaws of the clamp and the stitcher with both hands, handles both ends of specially prepared twine at the same time. Like most work and workers, individual production varies greatly.

With approximately 200 on the payroll, the production this year is geared for an even million balls, the highest in the history of the plant.

The horse-hide comes in huge sheets, a full half-horse size. The standard thickness of first grade covers is .055 inch, with a tolerance of only .001 inch.

The best grade of cover is cut from the middle of the side of the hide. Covers cut from the back and belly are used in cheaper grades of balls.

The full skin of the average horse yields approximately 40 square feet of cover from which covers for approximately 54 balls are cut. We went into mathematics to learn that to provide covers for a million balls, more than 1,800 horses died. The finished horse hide varies in thickness anywhere from .035 to .075 an inch. The heavier hide must be worked down to the required thickness and the lighter goes into lower grade balls.

The firm is comprised of Edward Hubbert, Sr., president; Walter Hubbert, vice-president, and Edward Hubbert, Jr., secretary-treasurer.

DEPENDABLE EQUIPMENT FOR FARM AND GARDEN

Yes, Blue Cross rates are going up but —

LOOK AT THE INCREASED BLUE CROSS BENEFITS!

Four out of the five changes are greatly to your advantage!

Last week we told you that Blue Cross rates were being raised because hospital costs have jumped over the moon.

Now, here comes the good news: the new Blue Cross contract provides greatly increased protection for its subscribers. Here are the changes in benefits which make Blue Cross membership more valuable than ever:

Under the old contract you were allowed only 21 or 24 or 27 or 30 days of hospitalization per contract per year—depending on the number of years you had belonged to the Blue Cross Plan. Starting on May 1, 1947 (if you are paying the increased rates), you will have 21 to 30 days (depending again on how long you've been a subscriber) for every time you are hospitalized—providing that each time it is for a different illness. In other words, you can be hospitalized each year 21 to 30 days for pneumonia, 21 to 30 days for a duodenal ulcer, 21 to 30 days for appendicitis, etc. You could be hospitalized (and we wish no such misfortune on anyone) 10 or 15 or 20 times a year and receive Blue Cross benefits each time! Because of the increased days' care, the 25% discount for 60 additional days has been dropped.

Patients desiring private rooms are now allowed $6.00 per day instead of the former $5.00. This $6.00 allowance has to do with the room only; for all other services a private-room patient will receive exactly the same benefits as he would in semi-private accommodations.

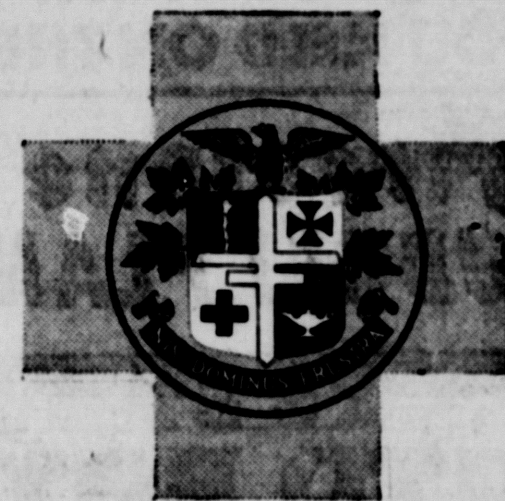

For Blue Cross subscribers hospitalized in non-member hospitals the allowance is increased from $12.00 to $15.00 for the first day, and to $6.00 a day thereafter.

Another important and useful new benefit: Out-Patient Care. Under the new contract you are entitled to emergency accident care and minor surgery at a hospital—even though you are not actually a bed patient.

These are the increased or added benefits. All the other valuable benefits—which are shown clearly in the right hand column—remain identical, except Maternity which now provides $7.50 a day for 10 days. Formerly it provided for complete maternity care in the hospital for 10 days—which averaged about $82.50 per person. So you can see that the change in the maternity benefit is a slight one.

All the above changes in benefits apply to all Group-Members. Non-Group Members enjoy these same new and improved benefits—except for the increased number of hospital admissions.

With the costs of everything going up—now more than ever before, you need Blue Cross protection. Blue Cross gives you service benefits (hospital bed and board, X-rays, penicillin, oxygen, etc.) instead of a flat sum of money which becomes worth less and less as costs go up. With Blue Cross, you are protected no matter how high hospital costs may go.

And all these benefits, too!

Semi-private room.
Meals and special dietary service.
General nursing service.
Drugs and medications including penicillin and sulfa drugs.
Unlimited oxygen.
Surgical dressings including casts, splints, etc.
Use of the Operating Room.
Anesthesia.
Physical therapy.
X-ray examinations up to $35.00.
Laboratory examinations up to $25.00.
Electrocardiograms up to $15.00.
Metabolism tests up to $10.00.
Ten days' care for surgical procedures in tuberculosis cases, and for the treatment of nervous and mental conditions.

New Rates Start May 1

(The increase will apply to all new Blue Cross subscribers, but will not affect present members until their contract date comes up.)

UPPER BLACK EDDY
IS STILL WHIRLING*Deep Waters Continually
Bubbling and Moving
In Circles*KNOWN TO RIVERMEN

The famous old "Upper Black Eddy" is still whirling according to an article appearing in the Quakertown Free Press this week. The article of this eddy as presented in the issue of February 25th follows:

The name is familiar, you've heard of it before, perhaps you've been to the place. Yet, do you know the history associated with it? Upper Black Eddy, we mean. Upper Black Eddy is in Bridgeton township, Bucks county.

This is where the deep waters continually bubbling and moving in circles. Nature is truly in an odd mood there.

Asa K. McIlhenny, historian, has written select data about the spot, one of which follows:

For more than 150 years, lumbering and rafting were major industries in the Delaware Valley. As many as 2,000 rafts passed down the river in rafting season, and sometimes clustered so thickly at a few places that they choked the river.

Rafts floated along at about eight miles an hour.

At night they were tied up to shore at one of the regular stopping places — Dingman's, Delaware Water Gap, and Upper Black Eddy.

Rafting was a regular profession. Most of the pilots lived in upstate New York or Pennsylvania, and new the river well all the way down to Trenton where they came into tidewater, and turned their rafts over to towboats.

Daniel Skinner, a former sailor settled in Wayne county, in 1763 and in 1764, started the first raft downstream and followed in a canoe. For several miles he piloted them down the river; then he lost control of them and returned to try again.

These local pilots were constantly in demand. One was William "Loty" Platt, who was a six-foot-three. William Crouse knew the river so well that for a few extra dollars he would guarantee the safe arrival of a raft. Others were Orrin Eddy and Joshua Pine.

One of the most famous of all the river raftsmen was William Parks. On January 26, the Easton newspapers told of a heroic feat by Parks, in steering a raft down from Delaware county, New York, in the dead of winter.

The Belvidere-Delaware railroad wanted a raft of heavy planks floated down to Easton. Nobody would undertake the job until Parks offered; he was called all kinds of a fool for starting such a venture, and few of his fellow raftsmen would bet that he could make it. The river was full of slush ice, likely to freeze in a few hours. Slush ice more than a foot deep piled up on the raft, and Bill shoveled it off with a wooden shovel.

Sometimes the raft skimmed along under the newly-formed crust of ice on the river. Other times, it ran up on the ice, and floated for miles on top of thick ice. At Narrowsburg, the channel was barely wide enough for the raft to get through; 20-inch banks of ice rose on each side. He won out, steering his raft safely through the dangerous ice.

On April 6, 1861, Parks brought into Upper Black Eddy the largest raft ever seen on the river. Made up of wharf lumber, it was 60 feet wide and 190 feet long, and contained 120,000 feet, board measure. It was loaded with 2,500 railroad ties, of green oak timber so heavy they would not float. The raft had 13 oars and a crew of 13 men. The body came from Narrowsburg on the Delaware, and it was loaded at Fiddler's elbow and Walpach bend.

The last day's run from Upper Black Eddy was without exciting incident, except when passing through Well's Falls, just below New Hope and Lambertville. This industry reached its height from 1840 to 1945, and began to decline about 1855 after the railroads were put into operation. It ended in 1907 when the last rafts passed down the Delaware.

Upper Black Eddy and Milford, N. J., are connected by a covered bridge.

Macaroni and Cheese Special

1 tablespoon salt
3 quarts boiling water
4 ounces elbow macaroni
1 cup medium white sauce
1 cup grated American cheese
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
1/4 cup chopped olives
2 tablespoons olive juice

Add 1 tablespoon salt to actively boiling water. Add macaroni and boil until tender (about 8 minutes). Drain and rinse. Add all other ingredients except 1/2 cup cheese to macaroni and mix well. Pour into greased 1 quart casserole. Sprinkle remaining cheese over top. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 30 minutes.

Yield: 4 servings.

Filets of Flounder in Sauce

6 filets of flounder
Boiling water
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 1/2 cups milk
2 egg yolks
1/4 cup grated cheese
1 1/2 teaspoons grated super-dried onions
1/4 teaspoon salt
Dash cayenne pepper
1 1/2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon lemon juice
4 tablespoons capers

Put filets in skillet with just enough water to cover the fish. Add lemon juice and salt. Poach filets until tender, about ten minutes. Remove from water with a pancake turner, being careful not to break the filets. Place them on a shallow baking dish. Melt butter. Stir in flour. Add milk gradually, stirring until sauce is smooth and thick. Pour hot sauce over slightly beaten eggs, beating constantly while adding. Return to heat and cook for 2 minutes. Stir in cheese, grated onions, salt, pepper and Worcestershire sauce. Continue to stir until cheese has melted. Add lemon juice, and capers. Pour seasoned cream sauce over fish. Place under broiler until sauce is bubbly and brown. Makes 6 servings.

Fish Casserole

1 1/2 tablespoons bacon fat or other fat
1/4 cup finely chopped onion
1/4 cup finely chopped green pepper
1 tablespoon flour
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup milk
1/4 cup corn liquid
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1 1/2 cups flaked cooked fish
1 cup kernel corn
1/4 cup grated American cheese

Melt fat. Add onion and green pepper and cook slowly for 5 minutes, stirring frequently. Mix together flour, salt and pepper. Add to fat and blend. Stir in milk and corn liquid slowly. Heat to boiling temperature, and cook, stirring constantly, about 5 minutes, or until sauce is smooth and thickened. Stir hot sauce into eggs. Fold in fish and corn. Turn into a greased 1 1/2 quart casserole. Sprinkle cheese over top of mixture. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 45 minutes, or until firm and lightly browned. Makes 6 servings.

Shrimps—Creole Style

1 pound raw shrimp
3 tablespoons butter
4 teaspoons lemon juice
1/4 cup minced celery
1 1/4 cups canned tomatoes
1/2 bay leaf
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon chili powder
2 teaspoons grated superdried onions
1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Pinch dry savory

1 small green pepper, sliced
Shell and vein the raw shrimps. Melt butter in skillet and add lemon juice, celery and tomatoes. Cook together for two minutes. Crumble the bay leaf and add with salt, chili powder, grated onions, Worcestershire sauce and savory to tomato mixture. Cover and simmer for five minutes. Add the raw veined shrimps and the green pepper slices to the sauce. Cover and simmer for 10 minutes. Serve with rice. Makes 4 servings.

OPERATE BY WINCH

DOYLESTOWN, April 3 — Six new lighting fixtures have been installed in court room No. One of Bucks County court house. With the improvement, the room is now lighted to the extent of 10,800 watts against 6,000 of the old-fashioned fixtures.

Electricians have installed the new fixtures in the panels adjacent to the old stained glass window and the domed ceiling.

Because the distance from the floor to the ceiling is between 40 and 50 feet, the workmen were compelled to work from the exterior of a dome-like roof. The new fixtures are six feet long and contain 300-watt lamps.

Prior to installing the new fixtures, a lighting engineer was employed by the county commissioners to suggest modern and efficient lighting. He recommended the six fixtures, which represent steel-like troughs, be installed. There will be one over the bulbs which will diffuse the light rays.

For cleaning and re-lamping purposes, a system of cables will be installed and operated by a winch. The steel fixtures will be lowered on the panels in the ceiling and topped 50 feet to the floor. So that no possible harm could come to them, eleven portraits of judges were carefully removed from the walls behind the judges' chairs and put away until the lighting is completed.

Easy does it... Mid-States "Metal Zipper" ARC WELDERS do away with slow, laborious methods... no other welder can equal the all 'round performance of these amazing units... they defy comparison.

Model 200 Metal Zipper is Designed for Medium-Heavy Welding — Up to 150 Amperes

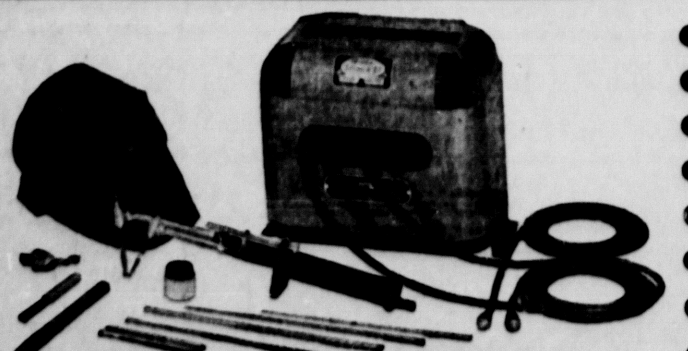

The Model 200 Metal Zipper contains all the built-in advantages of the Model 300 and is furnished with all standard attachments. It will handle the same light gauges as the 300. Does away with the hazards of gas welding. Actually, the Model 200 is exactly the same as the 300 except that its top capacity is 150 amperes. It provides a complete welding shop for the manufacturer where extremely heavy duty welding is not encountered. And, because this unit has a lighter draw on the lines it is especially recommended for farms and other areas where restrictions do not permit the use of heavier amperage equipment.
